

EMPLOYMENT ADVISORIES AND PRACTICES DURING COVID-19 (ONLINE)

Course Objective

Covid-19 affected not only business but also the way work is done. For most part of the world, including Singapore, most work other than essential services are either stopped or changed to home based working. Essential workers are also affected as there is more pressure to deliver.

To help facilitate business in these times, HR Business Partners are expected to ensure human capital is put to good use. Notwithstanding, various HR-Business Continuity Practice measures start taking shape and workplace practices start to develop. In this session, we examine the various impact of Covid-19 on the workforce and workplace practices in Singapore. Also, we evaluate new ways of work for HR and share practices on various HR domain areas. We will also examine various advisories/guidelines and understand what it means to a HR Business Partner.
